

HIRE A FULL-TIME CO-OP

UNIVERSITY OF CINCINNATI

#1 PUBLIC UNIVERSITY
FOR CO-OPS AND INTERNSHIPS

What is full-time co-op?

UC's co-op program connects students' academic studies to a series of meaningful professional experiences through alternating semesters of full-time (35 hours/week), paid positions related to their major. It's an educational partnership among UC, employers, and students.

Access the latest talent pool

Cooperative education connects employers with students to fill some of the most challenging positions to recruit and hire for today. Students are available year-round on a semester basis (typically 15–17 weeks).

- IT and Computing*
- Organizational Leadership and Human Resources
- Engineering*
- Design and Planning*
- Sales and Marketing
- Manufacturing and Logistics
- Web Development and Digital Communications

*Full-time co-op is required for students in the UC Colleges of Design, Architecture, Art and Planning; Engineering, Construction and Manufacturing; Information Technology (IT) and Computing.

Structured support for employers

UC offers a structured, turnkey system for employers to:

- view resumes and portfolios
- interview students
- extend offers directly to candidates
- provide feedback and evaluate a student's performance
- connect with a faculty advisor at anytime

Affordable, strategic recruiting

When you hire a co-op student, you're investing in the next generation while gaining access to:

- the latest talent pool of potential employees, before they enter the post-grad job market
- a cost-effective and low-risk opportunity to recruit and evaluate potential future hires
- relief for short-term peaks in workload or special projects
